UTHealth Houston researchers awarded over $6 million in CPRIT grants

A nearly $2 million grant has been awarded to Vanessa Schick, PhD, associate professor in the Department of Management, Policy and Community Health at UTHealth School of Public Health in Houston; and Jack Tsai, PhD, professor and dean of UTHealth School of Public Health in San Antonio, to lead an expansion of the program called GRASSROOTS HEALTH. This is an innovative program in Houston and San Antonio that aims to eliminate barriers to education, testing, and treatment for hepatitis B and C among individuals at risk of homelessness.

National Public Health Week was celebrated April 4-8

Several events occurred throughout National Public Health Week. The annual Dean's Chat featured Dean Eric Boerwinkle and Associate Dean of Academic & Research Affairs, Dr. Susan Tortolero-Emery. Themes for the week included:

- Racism: a public health crisis;
- The public health workforce: essential to our future;
- Community: collaboration and resilience;
- World Health Day: health is a human right;
- Accessibility: closing the health equity gap;
- Climate change: taking action for equity; and
- Mental wellness: redefining the meaning of health.

The poster for the NPHW 2022 Dean's Chat event features a light blue background. At the top, 'NPHW' is written in white on a dark blue rectangular background. Below this, '2022 Dean's Chat' is written in white on a dark blue rectangular background. Underneath, the date and time are listed: 'Tuesday, April 5 from 2:00 - 3:00PM CST via WebEX or RAS Auditorium'. Two headshots are shown side-by-side: Eric Boerwinkle, Ph.D., Dean, on the left, and Susan Tortolero-Emery, Ph.D., Sr. Associate Dean, Academic & Research Affairs, on the right. Below the headshots, their names and titles are printed. At the bottom, it says 'Hosted by Houston Student Association. For detailed information, please visit sph.uth.edu/events.' The UTHealth logo and 'School of Public Health' are at the very bottom.

Markham Appointed Chair of the Department Health Promotion and Behavioral Sciences

As of March 16, 2022, Christine Markham, PhD, has officially been appointed as Chair of the Department of Health Promotion and Behavioral Sciences at UTHealth School of Public Health. After serving as interim chair since 2019, Dean Eric Boerwinkle, PhD has identified Markham as the most qualified candidate to take on the leadership role. With over 30 years of experience in the development, implementation, evaluation, and dissemination of child and adolescent health promotion interventions, Markham brings to her newest leadership appointment extensive experience in all aspects of promoting and building upon the University's mission.

The image shows a woman, Christine Markham, with long blonde hair, wearing a dark sleeveless top. To her left is a dark blue vertical banner with white text that reads: 'Markham appointed as Chair of the Department of Health Promotion and Behavioral Sciences'. At the bottom left of the banner is the UTHealth logo and 'School of Public Health'.
